

Sarah Emory

Sarah has been a resident at Wild Horse Ranch for ten years and lives with her husband and children at their off grid residence. Sarah previously worked as a marine specialist and animal rehab specialist at Clearwater Marine Aquarium in Florida and is about to complete her second degree, A Bachelor in Sociology from New Mexico State University. She is an established writer, editor, and designer and is working on publishing her first novel. If elected as a Director of the HOA at Wild Horse Ranch, Sarah would like to help restore the community to the peaceful retreat she fell in love with over a decade ago. As a homeschool parent, Sarah would also like to help connect other families that live in the community through homeschool events and recreational opportunities, further establishing the community as a safe and family friendly residence.
