

Forrest Gray

Howdy. My name is Forrest Gray. My friends call me Forrest Gray. In the year 1987 my dear, sweet mother birthed me into this crazy world in the desert of Arizona, but was raised most of my life in the mountains of northern Utah. I was an English teacher in Uruguay, forest ranger in Utah, ski lift operator in Colorado, surf instructor in Hawaii, sea kayak guide in Alaska and Yellowstone tour guide in Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. Beginning of 2021 I bought a WHR lot, moved out here and have been living here full time. I enjoy hiking, hunting, horseback riding, gardening and occasionally laboring for others to financially support myself. I miss the good old days when republicans and democrats got along and wish there was less division and more community in our beautiful, remote community.
